Fake sign warning

The City of Albany would like to advise the community of the existence of fake public notices which have appeared near trails recently.

The signs, which appear genuine and purport to come from the City of Albany, claim to be informing the community of a council proposal to allow motorcycles on horse trails.

According to the hoax signs, motorcyclists would be required to sound their horns every 150m while on trails and horse riders would be required to dispose of horse dung.

The signs suggest a trial period is in place during October.

The City did not produce or authorise these notices and there are no such plans in place.
